MORE COURSES; BIG ENDOWMENT

Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College Meet and Ratify President's Plans for Expansion. To Raise $300,000.

Long strides were taken towards the advancement of Gettysburg College at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the institution held in Harrisburg on Tuesday and important announcements concerning the future activities of the institution have been made.

The trustees accepted the recommendation of President Granville that two new courses be added at the beginning of the 1911-1912 school year in September, one in civil engineering and one in municipal engineering. Gettysburg has the distinction of being the first Lutheran college in the United States to add engineering courses to its curriculum.

The purpose of the civil engineering course is well known and will bring many new students to Gettysburg who would otherwise go to other schools. This will be known as the Burton F. Blough chair. Municipal engineering is a new course which will fill the need of men thoroughly trained in the matter of caring for the health and sanitation of cities and large towns.

Another important step taken by the Board of Trustees was its acceptance of the report of the endowment committee recommending a campaign to raise an additional endowment of $300,000 in three years. This campaign is made up of President Granville, Dr. Milton H. Valentine, Martin H. Baehler and W. L. Gladfelter. Work at raising this amount is to be started at once and the Board provided for a financial secretary to aid the president in the campaign. The new fund will be permanent and its interest is expected to be adequate to the needs of the college for a period of five years. The money will be devoted to establishing new departments, securing new teachers, raising salaries, library purposes and general repairs to the buildings. The gifts of $30,000 already announced are a substantial start towards securing the desired sum.

The resignation of Dr. H. W. McKnight as a member of the Board was accepted with resolutions expressing appreciation of his services as president of the college and as a member of the Board. He was elected president emeritus of the institution.

Charles J. Feit, of Pittsburg, and Burton F. Blough, of Harrisburg, were elected new members of the Board.

The duties of registrar were added to those of Rev. H. A. Rindard as Y. M. C. A. secretary.

A resolution was passed thanking the ladies of the Gettysburg women's leagues for their interest and endorsing their plans for the future expansion of their work.

It was decided to divide the college year into two semesters instead of three terms as at present.

President Granville's plans for the future advancement of Gettysburg College include the policy of selecting only university trained men for the heads of departments in future elections. It is also his plan that where a young or inexperienced man is selected that he serve for a time as a temporary professor so that his worth may be proved before he is elected a full permanent professor.

It is understood that people of several cities stand ready to aid in the financial expansion above referred to and Gettysburg will also be given an opportunity to aid in the advancement of the local college.

BIG DEMAND FOR ONE CENT STAMPS

Twenty Four Thousand One Cent Stamps Sold at Local Post Office the Week before Christmas. Increased Business.

During the eight days preceding Christmas twenty four thousand one cent stamps were sold at the local post office and the largest Christmas business handled for many years.

The incoming mail was materially larger than in other years and required rapid work on the part of the employees to handle all without delay. Substitute carrier Henry Garlach and substitute clerk Jesse Snyder helped with the work and all was gotten through in good shape though Thursday and Friday were exceptionally heavy days in the outgoing mail. Friday and Saturday being the busiest in the incoming.

The volume of outgoing mail amounted to between $125 and $150 more than last year, showing a healthy growth.

The souvenir post card business greatly increased the work of the post office force and it kept all hustling to distribute and dispatch the little reminders and the many gifts. The work was done with such system, however, that patrons of the office experienced no delay in receiving their mail.

The special service given in the matter of handling fourth class matter Saturday and Sunday was much appreciated and gifts were received in this way which otherwise would have been held until Monday morning.

CHRISTMAS TREE ON FIRE

A slight fire which occurred at 10 a. m. Christmas morning at the home of C. D. Smith in McSherrystown, caused considerable excitement and had it not been for prompt action by members of the family in subduing the flames, might have proved disastrous. As it was, two pairs of lace curtains were destroyed, several large window panes broken, the wood work in the dining room scorched, and the wall paper ruined by smoke. The fire originated from an electric spark from the wire of a miniature trolley line, which became short circuited back of a Christmas tree. The flames communicated with the lace curtains, close to the tree, with the above result. The top of the tree was also burned.

PICKED UP AT SEA
Survivor of Wrecked Yacht Saved by Pilot Boat.
Key West, Fla., Dec. 28.—W. H. Parker, of the yacht Lebra, and not the Phra, as previously reported, was picked up at sea near the northwest lighthouse by a passing pilot boat, having been floating on a piece of the bottom of the wrecked yacht Lebra, commanded by Charles M. S. Bennett, and not Stuart Bennett, as given by other passengers.
Parker is from Americus, Ga., and is badly bruised, but not seriously injured. His statement is as follows:
"The yacht commanded and owned by Charles M. S. Bennett left Marco, Fla., Sunday morning at 4 a. m., having on board, besides the owner, who is a magazine writer for the Curtis Publishing company, of Philadelphia, and other periodicals, expecting to come to Key West and clear the boat for Havana, Cuba. On Sunday night while trying to enter the Wallow passage between the granite jetties at the northwest channel, seven miles from the city, she struck the granite jetty while the yacht was under full speed, both engines working and sails set. The yacht was crushed into pieces, Bennett being killed instantly. Mrs. Bennett was pulled from a floating piece of the deck by Parker onto a piece of the boat's bottom and remained there until next morning, when she became insane and let go the float and was washed away by the waves."
The body of Bennett was found by fishermen about four miles from the spot where the little vessel sank. No trace was found of Bennett's wife.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED
Acetylene Gas Plant Wrecks and Sets House on Fire.
Ogdensburg, N. Y., Dec. 28.—Word has just reached here from Warwick of the burning to death of the four young children of Ovide Barit.
The explosion of an acetylene gas apparatus in the house caused the fire. The four children, who were sleeping in the upper part of the house, were literally roasted alive. The father and mother, occupying a bedroom down stairs, were severely burned while endeavoring to rescue their children.
The whole side wall of the house was blown from its foundation by the force of the explosion, and when the first assistance came the building was a mass of flames.
The charred bodies of the children were later found in the ruins. The victims were Rachel, aged seven years; Lucienne, aged five; Mariola, aged four, and Marie Anne, three years old.

BABY AT RICH MAN'S DOOR
Finely Dressed, It Is Left by Woman in an Auto.
Washington, Dec. 28.—A three-months-old baby, dressed in expensive laces and embroideries, was the belated and unusual Christmas present which some one left on the marble steps of the residence of E. W. Creedy, in the fashionable northwest section of Washington.
The police say that the child, a boy, was left by a woman who brought it in an automobile. They have no clue as to her identity, but are working to trace the laces in which the baby was wrapped.

PRIEST ABSOLVES DROWNING GIRL
Risks Life to Give Rites to Dying Skater.
Conshohocken, Pa., Dec. 28.—Father Quinn, of St. Gertrude's Catholic church, risked his life to give absolution to a girl who was drowning.
Carefully picking his way over the thin ice to the spot where she was dying, he gave her the benefit of the church rites.
The girl was Miss Maggie Shaw, and after receiving absolution she released her hold on the ice, which exposure to the cold water had made it difficult to maintain, and sank to her death.
Miss Shaw had been skating with Miss Agnes Haynes, James Harper and Richard Faymou, all of Conshohocken. The party were on the Schuylkill river above the dam at their home suburb when they went too far down the river.

KIDNAPPERS GIVEN LONG IMPRISONMENT
Man and Woman Got Severe Sentence in New York.
New York, Dec. 28.—A body blow to the kidnapping bands who have been working in this and other cities was administered by Judge Fawcett in the county court in Brooklyn when, after unmercifully scoring Maria Rappa and Stanislaw Pattenza as a menace to the community and deserving of the death penalty, the court gave them the maximum sentence for kidnapping—an indeterminate period of from twenty-five to forty-nine years and ten months in state's prison.
They were convicted recently in quick trials of having abducted and held in captivity eight-year-old Giuseppe Longo and Michael Rizzo, seven years old, the sons of well-to-do Brooklyn Italians.
Young Longo was kidnapped on Nov. 19 last and a few days later the Rizzo boy disappeared. Longo's parents soon received a letter demanding $15,000 for the return of their child. The case being put into the hands of Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn, a clue was obtained as to the whereabouts of the supposed kidnappers, and in a sensational raid on a house in East Sixty-third street Giuseppe Longo was discovered and ten prisoners were taken, two of them women.
Little Giuseppe Longo was the chief witness against both prisoners at their trials. The prosecution alleged that Pattenza was the chief of the kidnapping band and that Maria Rappa was one of his most important aides.

FIX DATE FOR UPRISING
Honduran Rebels Plan General Uprising for Jan. 1.
New Orleans, La., Dec. 28.—Sunday morning, Jan. 1, has been set by Manuel Bonilla, former president of Honduras, who left New Orleans Thursday night, accompanied by General Lee Christmas, for an unknown point in Central America, as the date for a general uprising of the forces faithful to him, against the government rule of Miguel R. Davilla, the present executive of Honduras, according to information received from one now in New Orleans, who is well informed as to the plans of the commander of the revolutionary forces.
Generals Bonilla and Christmas, it is said, left New Orleans on Thursday night simultaneously with the departure of the steamer Hornet, but according to this information they did not go on that vessel. The ship is said to have gone directly to Cape Gracias, for which point she cleared.
Dispatches from various points in Honduras give the information that a revolutionary movement is expected at any time and that the coast cities and many of those in the interior have been fortified and garrisoned by President Davilla.

Three Killed in Collision.
Kansas City, Dec. 28.—Train No. 9, known as the "Red Hummer" on the Chicago & Alton railroad, which left Chicago for Kansas City, ran into a freight train near Farber, Mo. Three trainmen were killed, but none of the passengers was injured. The passenger train struck the caboose of the freight, which had failed to clear the main track in going on a siding.
Little Giuseppe Longo was the chief witness against both prisoners at their trials. The prosecution alleged that Pattenza was the chief of the kidnapping band and that Maria Rappa was one of his most important aides.

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 28.—Supreme Court Justice Betts handed down a decision vacating the temporary injunction obtained by Ellis B. Long, of Esopus, who brought action against the state prison commission to restrain the awarding of a contract for the new state prison at Windale, Dutchess county.

Schoolboy Hanged Self in Swamp.
Fairhaven, Mass., Dec. 28.—The body of Herbert Potter, a sixteen-year-old boy, was found hanging to a tree in a swamp about a quarter of a mile from the place where his bicycle and school books were found on Dec. 10. Illness is given as the cause of his suicide.

Four Trainmen Die in Wreck.

THE BIG HAT SCARE
Physician Says Headgear Makes Women Round Shouldered.
THE BEST FORM OF CHARITY.
A Splendid Way to Spend One's "Over-income"—To Give a Euchre a la Japanese—Steamer Chair Easily Adapted to New Use.
Dear Elsa—Did you ever hear of such foolishness? A frumpy old physician has been trying to scare women to death about wearing large hats. I've just finished reading his story, and without believing a word of what he says to be true I have a funny feeling about putting on my new picture hat for the bridge party this afternoon. The disconcerting theory propounded by this doctor is that the wearing of big hats tends to make women round shouldered. Whether the condition is due to the weight of the hat or the difficulties women have in handling such headgear in street car crushes and like places the physician does not say. He states that a woman cannot sit upright in any vehicle wearing such headgear. The weight of the hat and its size make it impossible for her to carry herself properly. By wearing such hats she injures her lungs and her chest and breaks down her whole body. It's sad news, isn't it? But we'll wear them just the same, won't we, dear?
And apropos of hats, although so simple in appearance, they are just as expensive as ever. I have discovered to my sorrow that it is useless to try and save on hats. Simplicity may be elegant, but it is not cheap.
Early this winter I was so happy. I said to myself: "Oh, joy! No trimming on the hats this year. I can get one world, and bequests to these come from all quarters, but to well bred poverty without rich relatives little help is apt to drift. Friends of such persons cannot assume that they are in need, and few know how to send help as my friend proved it could be sent. I intend to emulate her example, as I think this form of charity one which is too much neglected by those of us who could do it without giving offense or making those we are really fond of feel that they are objects of charity."

My, how I should like to be able to be such a friend in need to some one! If I ever get the chance I'm going to play the same game of fairy godmother to some modern Cinderella.
I remember, Elsa, when poking about in your attic last summer, stumbling over the steamer chair that you used on our trip over the pond together. Of course you have kept it as a matter of sentiment, but here is a way of making it of practical value. Wash off the cane seating with soap and water, then dry with rags and put in the sun to freshen. As the wood is very shabby it can be treated to a coat of white paint and when this is dry a finishing coat of enamel. Now make an oblong cushion of cretonne, with which your bedroom is hung, to conceal the back of the chair and one for the seat, if you wish, but I think the back cushion is sufficient for comfort, and you will have converted what was a useless piece of furniture into a mighty good looking and comfortable resting place. And don't forget to throw across the foot of the chair a Roman blanket or a dainty knit one for artistic effect and for future use.
You are going to entertain the euchre club? Why not try a euchre a la Japanese? It is so easy to do and so inexpensive. As all your guests live near each other, have the invitations printed in Japanese style on paper napkins and inclose them in tiny paper lanterns and have them delivered by a small boy messenger at the individual dwellings.
On each lantern have the name of the person for whom it is designed in gilt and black. It would be most attractive to have several girls dressed in Japanese costumes to distribute the score cards in the shape of lanterns, having ribbon or cord drawn through two holes at the top.
The principal lighting of the room could be accomplished by gorgeous lanterns depended from wires crisscrossed over the heads of the players, with gas jets at the sides of the room to help out.
It would help along the good work to have Japanese panels and branches of cherry blossoms about the room, but this is not essential. Decorate each table prettily. For instance, one table might have a tiny dwarf tree in a porcelain jardiniere, which afterward could be distributed as a prize. For prizes you could have a genuinely imported teapot and a Japanese print in a teakwood frame.
At our afternoon bridge game last week there was a silly little woman, a friend of one of the members, playing with us. I threw my cards down on the table and, smiling across at her, said, "Lay on, Macduff!" In simpler tones came the reply, "Pardon me, but my name's MacDugal!" Can you beat that for absurdity? If you can tell it to MABEL.

THE NEW MOTOR COAT.
cheap." I did at first. It was a plain little hat without a ribbon or a feather or a bit of lace upon it. I felt so economical until I began to wear it. Then I noticed one day that my hatpins showed very plainly, and I felt ashamed when I realized how little they cost. Before this the pins had been hidden discreetly beneath the hat trimmings. This year there is no place to hide cheap hatpins. So before I wore that plain little chapeau again I was obliged to go out and buy two nice really worth while hatpins. And they brought the total cost of the hat away up to where it always had been. Trust these milliners to get even with us in some way. If we save on the trimmings they see to it that we have to make it up on our jeweled hatpins. How do you like my new motor coat, a sketch of which I am inclosing?

The Best Form of Charity.
A number of wealthy women recently were discussing what they considered the best form of charity, when one who had lately joined the charming circle said:
"Well, I can tell you of something that a very dear friend of mine used to do, not even calling it charity, but as I was one of those benefited I can say that it was charity and of the highest kind. She had an income that seemed fabulous to us girls who had but little spending money, and in some very nice way she found out about what each of us had. At Christmas and other important occasions of the kind each one received a note that was not long, but full of affection and encouragement. Inclosed was a check that somehow was always just the amount most needed for some special object that seemed almost unattainable. She never by any means interested herself in girls who were extravagant, but those in her own set who really needed the sort of help she gave to eke out their own small means. So that is how my 'over-income' is going. The endowed and established charities are before the

BANK CLOSED; HEAD IN ASYLUM

Grand Jury to Probe Affairs of J. G. Robins' Northern.

DEPOSITS ARE $7,000,000

State Superintendent Takes Charge of Institution and Banker Is Committed to Madhouse.

New York, Dec. 28.—Joseph G. Robins, formerly Robinovitch, described at present as a banker, was committed to a madhouse on Monday between business days, at the instance of his friends, while two state departments were going through his banking and insurance performances and, on a holiday, invoking the offices of the district attorney.

His bank, the Northern, at 215 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, with deposits of $7,000,000, was closed by the banking department before business could open Tuesday. It has nine branches, which were closed simultaneously.

The insurance department set things going against Robins through an inquiry into the financing of the Aetna Indemnity Company of Hartford, by Robins, who, the department says, has treated the assets of a lot of companies he controlled as his own personal property.

Banker Carried Poison.

District Attorney Whitman was in conference on Monday night with Orton H. Cheney, superintendent of banking, and William H. Hotchkiss, superintendent of insurance, over Robins' transactions, when he was informed that Robins had just been committed by Supreme Court Justice Amend, sitting at his house, to Dr. Charles F. MacDonald's private sanitarium at Central Valley, as an insane person. It was reported to Superintendent Hotchkiss that Robins had been carrying cyanide of potassium about with him, threatening to use it if criminal proceedings were begun against him, and that he had attempted to jump from a window at the Cafe Beaux Arts, where he was living. The case will go to the grand jury just the same, and Robins will not be the only man presented.

Frederick K. Morris, described by Superintendent Hotchkiss as Robins' confidential man, is said to have suffered a stroke of apoplexy on Monday.

Find Worthless Paper.

District Attorney Whitman spent several hours with Superintendent Hotchkiss and Joseph A. Broderick, an examiner in the state banking department, going over papers and attempting to get things into shape so that he can present the case to the grand jury early next week. He will try to secure an indictment against Robins whether he is sane or not.

In going over the papers the district attorney and Mr. Hotchkiss found one note for $50,000 that they considered worthless. It is understood that several officers of the institutions under examination are implicated and that the district attorney will take action against them as soon as he is in possession of the necessary facts.

TAFT'S PET BILLS BURIED IN HOUSE

Congress Not Interested in Subsidies and Injunctions.

KEEP WATCH ON JUDGES

Many Believed Upright Judges Are Needed More Than New Legislation, as a Crooked Judge Can Evade Any Statute.

Washington, Dec. 28.—If speed in getting appropriation bills out of the way counted for anything, President Taft might reasonably expect to get congress to enact two bits of legislation he seems to have near his heart.

The first of these is the mail subsidy bill. The other is to force federal judges to give notice before issuing injunctions.

But nobody other than the president is taking any interest in either. Any man other than an optimist like the president might well say it is no use to try. Every member of the lawmaking body has other things to do. Mail subsidy sounds just as had in the ears of the man from the middle west as plain ship subsidy.

Samuel Gompers shot his bolt on the injunction matter two years ago and winged only one or two members of congress. Therefore, so far as the average congressman feels, that subject is as much of a mummy as the best Egypt ever produced.

The fact is the discussion produced by the protests of organized labor has already corrected the most glaring abuse of the equity writ. It is obvious to most men that the evils complained of can be corrected by any upright judge. Any crooked judge can evade any statute that might be enacted, and congress alone, by means of the unsatisfactory impeachment process, can get at him.

Close Watch on Judges.

The discussion of the fitness of men named for judicial office makes the agitation for statutory restraints upon judges almost unnecessary. Federal judges are awakening to the fact that the newspapers of the land know they have a perfect right to discuss their acts after the question at issue has been decided, and are exercising it with a freedom that holds them up to public scorn if they have abused the judicial power.

Furthermore, they are learning that, while none of the men now before the senate may fall of confirmation because of the newspaper agitation, there is a steady growth of public feeling, directed at a president who dare nominate a man for judge whose record shows a stretching of the law for the benefit of the man who has $5 and for the detriment of the citizen who has 6 cents or less.

That same public feeling is directed against senators who vote for the confirmation of such nominations. Roosevelt aroused an interest in the square deal. The public is making its own definitions of what constitutes one.

Sizing Up Democrats.

Democratic leaders in congress, men who have been in office without any responsibility during the long years of Republican rule, are coming in for a measuring. Those found to be friendly toward the interests that coin dollars without having worked for them will come in for just as much muck-raking as has been done on the Republican side of the line. The financial interests that have been capitalizing the favors granted by the public to the end that they may call on the public to "Pay, pay, and keep on paying" for the things never furnished, have assistants among the Democrats just as far from straight as the Republicans.

The only difference is that the Republicans, having the responsibility for legislation and execution, have been found out. Obscurity has been kind to the Democratic helpers of the financial patriots—the men who regard governmental agencies as adjuncts to their business.

Real widebrows in congress know the need is more for decent men than for new legislation; that upright judges will never cause complaints on account of the equity writ of injunction, the only true function of which is to forbid the doing of something that will cause damage that cannot be repaired by the payment of money.

WILSON RETURNS LIE

Denies He Plotted Deal With Smith to Beat Martine.

St. Louis, Dec. 28.—Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, on his arrival here denounced as a false hood any statement that he had discussed with Parnes Smith, Jr., since the New Jersey primary, the election of any person other than James E. Martine, Democratic primary nominee to the United States senatorship.

Two Brothers Drowned.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 28.—George Hutter, superintendent of the Fort Defiance Coal company, of Cauleybridge, W. Va., and his brother, R. R. Hutter, of this city, were drowned while crossing the Kanawha river near Cauley Mills when returning home from an entertainment. George broke through the ice and R. R. Hutter plunged after him in an effort to save him. Both men soon disappeared under the ice and were drowned.

A Hint to Cake-makers.

When it is necessary to make several cakes at once, save yourself the tiresome beating of the batter by putting the required ingredients in their usual order into a small ice cream freezer. A few minutes of turning the crank results in the fine, smooth batter necessary for a successful cake. This is a great improvement over beating with a spoon after the old fashion

MRS. BELVA LOCKWOOD.

Famous Suffragette Accused of Attempt to Extort Money.

SUES BELVA LOCKWOOD

Man She Had Arrested Asks $10,000
Damages.

Dalton, Ga., Dec. 28.—Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood, the woman attorney of Washington, has been sued here for $10,000 damages by James B. Brackett, a prominent citizen of Dalton, and the case will be called for trial next week. Brackett accused Mrs. Lockwood of maliciously having him arrested in an attempt to extort money.

The case grew out of a government settlement of the claims of the descendants of the eastern Cherokee Indians. Brackett's family received something over $4000 of this money, and Mrs. Lockwood demanded 10 per cent of this, which Brackett refused, on the ground that he had not employed her. Brackett received the money and Mrs. Lockwood had him arrested, charging larceny after trust. When the case was heard the large against Brackett was dismissed and Mrs. Lockwood was rebuked by the court.

TAFT WILL STAND FOR RENOMINATION

Looks For Republican Victory in 1912.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Friends of the administration made it known in an emphatic manner that President Taft intends to stand for renomination in 1912.

They expect that Mr. Taft will have the support of Colonel Roosevelt. The president is now in an optimistic frame of mind and looks forward to a Republican victory in 1912. A few weeks ago the situation didn't look promising to the president. He believed that the November defeat presaged another disaster in the national campaign to follow. Even at that time the president is known to have told friends that he would accept the nomination even in the face of certain defeat if the Republican convention placed the standard in his hands.

It is, of course, out of the question for Mr. Taft to announce his candidacy, but it may be stated on good authority that whatever the political developments of the next few years may be, Mr. Taft's name will be placed in nomination at the party gathering in 1912.

GAS WIPES OUT FAMILY

Mother and Two Children Asphyxiated

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 28.—Asphyxiation by gas wiped out an entire Hammond family here. The dead are: Mrs. John Rucker, aged sixty years; Joseph Rucker, her son, aged seventeen, and Matilda Rucker, her daughter, aged twenty.

The discovery was made by boys returning from skating, who saw the dead form of the son leaning against a window, which he had evidently tried to open, being too nearly overcome by gas to raise it. The bodies of mother and daughter were found together in their bed.

The search was futile and has caused resentment in the Japanese colony.

TELLS HARDSHIP OF IMMIGRANTS

Secretary Nagel Suggests
Changes in Law.

FAMILIES ARE SEPARATED

Says More Equitable System Can Be Found—Expects a Banner Year in 1911.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Secretary Nagel's annual report contains many important recommendations for changes and improvements in the various bureaus and branches of the department of commerce and labor.

Great popular interest attaches to the immigration and naturalization of aliens, and much of the secretary's report is devoted to that subject.

One of the hardships of the present immigration laws, Secretary Nagel believes, is the separation of families. In many instances a father is admitted and his wife and children are barred out after the pioneer has made a home. The secretary believes that a more equitable system could be found, and says he assumes it is the purpose of the law to keep families together and not to separate them. The secretary suggests that some system by which inquiry should be made about the families of immigrants before the fathers and sons are admitted, should be put into practice.

Unless immigration can be diverted from Ellis Island or reduced, there is need for additions to the facilities there. At no port is there any adequate provision for handling immigrants, declares the secretary, although in most places sites have already been bought by the government for buildings to be used for these purposes.

Stricter regulation of steamship companies in the immigrant traffic is urged in the report and a system of fines for companies which bring insane immigrants or those afflicted with contagious disease is proposed. The secretary declares that the immigration officials even find it unwise to allow alien employees of steamships to land on American soil without applying the usual examination to them.

Expect Banner Year.

While the fiscal year 1910 brought a total of 1,198,037 immigrants to the United States, the prediction is made that the coming year will approach the banner year 1907, when more than 1,285,000 aliens came in. Of all those who came this year more than 274,000 admitted they had been assisted by friends. All the immigrants brought a total of $28,197,745 with them, a per capita of about $27.

The bulk of the immigration continues to be drawn from southern and eastern Europe. Two per cent of all who applied for admission were turned back. They numbered 24,270 in all, as against 10,411 in 1909. Although no increase in attempts to import contract labor is apparent, 1700 aliens were deported as such during the year. Stricter legislation to govern that class of immigration is recommended.

Secretary Nagel refers briefly to violations of the white slave law, and declares that immigration officials are able to cope with only a fraction of the violations. If the traffic is to be stamped out, he says, states and municipalities must take a more active interest.

TRIES TO WED HALF-SISTER

Philadelphia Girl and Fiance Grieve
When Law Refuses License.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 28.—Paul Lunnon, a traveling man, giving his residence as Buffalo, tried to get a marriage license here to wed his half-sister, Bella Moss, twenty-one years old, of Philadelphia.

The clerk filled out the license until he reached the point where he asked them if they were relatives, and was surprised to learn that they had the same mother.

The clerk explained that it was against the law for them to marry. Lunnon was deeply affected, and Miss Moss broke down and wept for some time. They asked if it was possible to marry in some other state, but the clerk could not tell them, and they left the city much upset.

Arm and Leg Off; Lives.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 28.—Despite the fact that one leg and one arm had been cut off and he has received numerous other cuts, James Redding, of 1205 West Liberty street, is lying at the Delaware hospital with a fair chance of recovery. Redding was walking along the tracks when he was run down by a train.

Chicago's Heavy Xmas Mail.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 28.—Christmas gifts of more than $3,000,000 were made through the Chicago postoffice money order department this year, according to the report of Superintendent J. B. Schlossman, of the money order department. Of this more than $1,000,000 went to foreign countries, in average amounts of $15.

York, Pa., Dec. 28.—Because his mother scolded him, Lawrence Throne, aged nineteen years, slashed his throat with a razor. He was hurried to the hospital and may recover.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil lamp has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel, and easily polished.

A Peculiarity of Carrots.

Although carrots are among the most commonly cooked vegetables in various forms—stewed, boiled, puree, soups and introduced into ragouts, braises and mirepoix—yet they are among the least digestible of vegetables; but, strange to say, notwithstanding their indigestibility, so far as regards form and substance, they are not known to cause any digestive derangement.

The great affection which cooks and their masters have for carrots can only be explained by their color, which makes an impression on the eye, and their flavor and sweetness, which speak to the palate.—Fall Mail Gazette.

HER JUDICIAL FRIEND

By SARAH BRYCE VAUGHAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Well, Ruth, tell me frankly, what do you think of my lover?"

"Frankly, Amy, I don't like his looks. He is not to be depended upon."

"Oh, heavens!"

"I am sorry I said it. Don't let it trouble you for an instant. You asked me for my opinion of him, not some one else's opinion. Try again; ask others. If they agree with me, drop him. If they do not, pay no attention to what I have said."

"That's just like you, Ruth. You have taken a wise course—a judicious course—I may say a judicial course. Men say that we women should never be judges or jurymen. Your action disproves this. You have given me the benefit of your impressions, but have admonished me that unless I get confirmatory evidence to pay no attention to them."

"I trust you will show yourself as worthy to receive them as you consider me worthy to give them."

"What do you mean?"

"That you are under no consideration to reveal to your lover the fact that I have even given you any opinion."

Amy Brickwell thought a moment, then said, "I suppose I shouldn't, so I won't—that is, if you won't let me."

"Certainly, I won't let you! Do you promise?"

"Yes; I promise."

"If you tell that will end our friendship forever."

Miss Brickwell asked a number of persons what they thought of her lover, and not one confirmed the opinion of her friend. Indeed, all those she consulted told her that they had been very much pleased with his personnel, and those who knew him spoke very highly of him. This lifted a load from her shoulders. She religiously kept faith with her friend, refraining from mentioning the matter between them to her lover or any one else.

But a time came when she began to wonder if Ruth were not right, after all. The lover's calls became less and less frequent. He grew undemonstrative. There could be no doubt that he was preparing to throw off the chain that bound him to his fiancée. One evening when he showed this disposition she said to him:

"I was warned against you soon after we became engaged."

"Who warned you?"

"I have promised not to tell that."

"Was your friend man or woman?"

"Woman."

"Well, why didn't you take her advice and shake me?"

"The person who warned me was a very superior woman. After warning me she told me to get the opinion of others, and if they did not confirm hers I was to pay no attention to what she had said. You see, she had a judicial mind."

"And you asked the others?"

"I did, but it turned out she knew better than they."

"I should like to know the name of this judicial person."

"That you can't know."

"And you supposed that the people you asked for their impressions of me, knowing that you were engaged to me, would tell you the truth?"

"I asked them all to be frank."

"Stupid!"

"It's not pleasant to be called a fool. Miss Brickwell pouted, but said nothing."

"I'm going to tell you something," said her fiancée. "I have heard reports about you that have needed investigation. After a man is married he should scout evil reports about his wife; before marriage it is better that they should be cleared up. I'm going to make a confession as well. An old flame of mine has appeared on the scene, and I've been with her a great deal lately."

"You have?"

"Yes, I have, my reason being that I suspected she was the author of these reports about you. I concluded to renew my devotion to her for detective purposes. I have found out nothing as yet, but I hope to soon. She supposes me to be on the eve of breaking with you and renewing my engagement to her."

"The horrid thing! Who is she?"

"I am not just yet ready to tell you. I may suspect her wrongfully. If so you will never know. But this person whose judicial talent you appreciate so highly—I'm not going to ask you to break a promise, but I'm going to mention the name of a woman I suspect. You need make no reply. I caught all the information I require without one. I suspect Ruth Swain."

The young lady started.

"I am confirmed in the opinion," her lover continued, "that your judicial friend and my former fiancée, who expects soon to be re-engaged to me, are one and the same person."

The girl first turned red, then pale. Her lover clasped her in his arms.

"Sweetheart," he said, "whether or no Miss Swain has a judicial mind, you have not. It was her object to exercise her judicial faculties to send you to Coventry. But she overreached herself by trying to do too much. Had you been as dishonorable as she I would have got at the bottom of it all long ago. But I would rather have you stupid than dishonorable. Now let us dismiss it from our minds."

Indeed, there was nothing more to say.

Mean.

"Yes, it was George's idea to give me a silver spoon for every birthday."

"How many has he given you?"

"Why, twenty-two."

"Why did he stop?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The One Thing Necessary.

"Has little Mrs. R. consoled herself over her husband's death yet?"

"Oh, no; not yet. You know what a long time these insurance companies take to pay!"—Simplicissimus.
